An Ignatian Spirituality Conference

April 1, 2017
9am - 12pm

Conference Presenter:

We do not walk alone, or taking things easily. We walk with “a heart that does not rest, that does not close in on itself, but beats to the rhythm of a journey undertaken together with all the faithful people of God”.

- Pope Francis

(from his address to Jesuit delegates gathered for GC36, Oct. 24, 2016)

Fr. Brian McDermott, SJ
Special Assistant to the President,
Georgetown University

About the Conference:

The Ignatian spiritual tradition offers rich resources for people who yearn to grow as “contemplatives likewise in action.” These folks desire to grow in union with the Trinitarian God not only through formal prayer but also through prayerful collaborating with the Trinity’s project in the world. This conference will provide an opportunity for spiritual and retreat directors to explore how Saint Ignatius’ guidelines for discerning spirits and for finding and doing God’s will can provide support for these people who seek to grow as intimate partners with the God who labors to make our graced and fractured world a new creation.
